

University of Richmond Academic Skills Center

ENGAGING IN REMOTE LEARNING

Stay focused in the Zoom classroom. If you find that your mind is wandering, notice what is occurring and gently bring back your focus to the lecture or classroom discussion.

- Actively engage and participate in class, break-out rooms, and discussions.
- Learning takes place when you actively engage.
- Write down questions that come up through reading and classes. This action will help you to actively engage in learning.

Sit or stand in your dedicated work space.

- Unless classroom protocols give you permission, do not wander or walk around while in the Zoom classroom.

Ask your professor to define acceptable protocols.

- Should you raise your hand physically or digitally?
- What is the protocol for proper use of the Chat function?

Schedule virtual group study with class mates.

- Engagement in consistent group study can enhance your understanding of information, conceptualization, problem solving, and can improve your grades.